L. BURYON & Co., Troy, N. Y.

Considerable interest was manifested in this city and Bellaire yesterday as to the condition of Mr. Newton L. Marsh, the unfortunate pedestrian of Tuesday and Wednesday at Washington Hall. When he retired from the track he was in a very exhausted condition, and was ordered by his physician Dr. Harvey to the McLure House instead of carrying out his original ntention of going to Bellaire with his riends. He retired about 11:30 on the night of the close and has been in bed ever since, and was called upon during yesterday and last night by crowds of his friends, and others who were interested in the condition of a man who had exhibited so much pluck and endurance.

A reporter of this paper called in during the afternoon vesterday, and found Mr, Marsh in bed, in a darkened room. With him was a Register specialist. Mr. Marsh received us very cordially, and in answer to our question as to his condition said that he felt all right, and thought as soon as his feet would heal up he would be but little "the worse of the wear."

Ititle "the worse of the wear."

He said that his feet were the only trouble, and they were terribly blistered, after he had gone the first 20 miles of the contest. The first pair of shoes "I had on," said he "blistered my feet so that I could scarcely move without great pain. The next pair I put on were too heavy by far, and I wonder now that I carried them as long as I did. Many a person would have left the track long before I did."

"What was the difficulty, Mr. Marsh, or "there what was the obstacle in the way of your making the 120 miles?"

"Well, I suppose the reason was I had received no training, only what little exercise I had taken over the hills. Another reason was I did not diet myself at all. My folks were violently opposed to my walking at all; they had an idea it was a disreputable undertaking, and no amount of reasoning on my part to the contrary could disabuse their minds of this; they had an idea it was a disreputable undertaking, and no amount of reasoning on my part to the contrary could disabuse their minds of this; they had an idea it was to be a Bellevue Gerden walk, and you know the odor of those in this city and vicinity. So I did not ask them for any peculiar food for myself, but took what come to hand first."

"What do you think of Miss Von Blumer?"

No, sir. I like it better than ever, and so far as being disgusted with it is concerned I would tackle Miss Von Blumen sgain to-morrow were I in condition; but this has taught me one lesson. I would not try another leat of this kind without first going into active training. I would procure a trainer and follow the example of professionals in their preparation for the sawdust ring. I belonged to that Club;" but before he could go further Mr. Marsh who had already nearly suffered death in the last twenty-four hours, fainted in mercy to himself, and taking advantage of the crisis we left to hunt up Miss Von Blumen, whom we found in company with her trainer Mr. Miller, his wife and daughter, Mr. Hahn, her agent, Mr. Blacklaughter, Mr. Hahn, hersgent, Mr. Black-
